

A More “Liberal” Social Democracy?
Seeking fairness and progress in the global age
London, 15 and 16 September 2008

Participant list

Jessica Asato (UK) is deputy director of Progress and an independent public policy researcher specialising in health and social care.

Luca Bader (Italy) is deputy head of international relations of the Margherita party in Italy. He is also director of the Institute of European Democrats in Brussels.

Frans Becker (Netherlands) is deputy director of the Wiardi Beckman Foundation.

Matt Beech (UK) is a lecturer in politics at the University of Hull, where he is also director of the Centre for British Politics.

Anne Bostanci (Germany) was the former project manager at Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung in London.

Alessandra Buonfino (Italy) is programme leader at the Young Foundation. She is also a senior associate at Demos.

Liam Byrne (UK) is Home Office minister of state for borders and immigration, and minister for the West Midlands.

Federica Caciagli (Italy) is a scholar at the Machiavelli Centre for Cold War Studies in Italy.

Nita Clarke (UK) is director of the Involvement and Participation Association.

David Coats (UK) is associate director of policy at the Work Foundation.

Olaf Cramme (Germany) is director of Policy Network.

René Cuperus (Netherlands) is director for international relations and senior research fellow at the Wiardi Beckman Foundation.

Tibor Dessewffy (Hungary) is chairman of the Demos Hungary Foundation. He is an associate professor at Eötvös Loránd University.

Patrick Diamond (UK) is director of policy and strategy at the Equality and Human Rights Commission.

Karl Duffek (Austria) is director of the Renner Institute, the political academy of the Social Democratic party of Austria. He is also an adviser on programmatic issues to the party leader.

Tobias Dürre (Germany) is a writer, journalist and political adviser based in Berlin. He is the editor of the Berliner Republik magazine and chairman of the thinktank Das Progressive Zentrum.

Olivier Ferrand (France) is president of Terra Nova. He is also a national delegate for Europe for the Socialist party.

Andrew Gamble (UK) is professor of politics and head of the Department of Politics at the University of Cambridge.

Anthony Giddens (UK) is former director of the London School of Economics, a life long fellow of King's College, Cambridge and a member of the House of Lords.

David Goodhart (UK) is the founder and editor of Prospect magazine, a London-based current affairs monthly launched in 1995.

David Halpern (UK) is director of research at the Institute for Government.

Patricia Hewitt (UK) is the Labour MP for Leicester West, a position she has held since 1997. Hewitt previously served as a secretary of state for health, secretary of state for trade and industry and cabinet minister for women.

Ernst Hillebrand (Germany) is director of the Paris office of the Friedrich Ebert Stiftung.

Will Hutton (UK) is chief executive of the Work Foundation.

Yusuf Işık (Turkey) is an expert on Turkey's economic development process. He is the former head of the Strategic Research Department of the State Planning Organisation.

Sunder Katwala (UK) is general secretary of the Fabian Society.

Michael Kenny (UK) is a visiting research fellow at the Institute for Public Policy Research (IPPR), and a professor of politics at the University of Sheffield.

Jürgen Krönig (Germany) is a freelance author for TV and various publications in Germany and the UK, including Die Zeit.

Axelle Lemaire (France) is research assistant to the Denis MacShane MP and chair of the London branch of the French PS.

Roger Liddle (UK) is vice chair of Policy Network.

John Lloyd (UK) is the contributing editor at the Financial Times.

Marie Loewe (Germany) is research assistant to Patricia Hewitt MP.

James Macintyre (UK) is night reporter for the Independent.

Denis MacShane (UK) is the Labour MP for Rotherham and former minister of state for Europe.

David Marquand (UK) is a visiting fellow at the University of Oxford. He is a former Labour MP and chief adviser to the European Commission and was a founding member of the Social Democratic party (SDP).

John McTernan (UK) is special adviser to the UK secretary of state for defence.

Ulrich Meister (Switzerland) is foreign editor and a correspondent for the Neue Zürcher Zeitung.

Stephen Meredith (UK) is senior lecturer in politics at the School of Education and Social Science at the University of Central Lancashire.

Carlos Mulas-Granados (Spain) is a tenured professor of applied economics at Complutense University.

Geoff Norris (UK) is senior policy adviser in the office of the UK prime minister, Gordon Brown.

Denise Nuessle (Germany) is project assistant at the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung.

Andrés Ortega Klein (Spain) is a columnist and editorial writer for El País, and the director of the Spanish edition of Foreign Policy.

Werner Perger (Austria) is a political correspondent, writer and editor for the German weekly newspaper Die Zeit.

Alfred Pfaller (Germany) is a sociologist who has worked at the Universities of Mannheim and Pittsburgh, the Pennsylvania State University, as well as the Institutos Latinoamericanos de Investigaciones Sociales in Santiago.

Victor Phillip Dahdaleh (Canada) is board trustee of the William J Clinton Presidential Foundation and the honorary president of the Centre for the Study of Global Governance of the London School of Economics.

James Purnell (UK) is secretary of state for work and pensions.

Richard Reeves (UK) is the director of Demos.

Karl-Heinz Spiegel (Germany) is the director of Friedrich-Ebert Stiftung in London.

Christian Schemmel (Germany) is a tutor in politics in St Anne's College, University of Oxford.

Matthew Taylor (UK) is chief executive of the Royal Society of Arts.

Polly Toynbee (UK) is a Guardian columnist and president of the Social Policy Association.

Loukas Tsoukalis (Greece) is president of the Hellenic Foundation for European and Foreign Policy, and an adviser to the president of the European Commission. He is also professor of European integration at the University of Athens and a visiting professor at the College of Europe in Bruges.

Kitty Ussher (UK) is economic secretary to the Treasury.

Patrick Wintour (UK) is the political editor of the Guardian.

Stewart Wood (UK) is senior policy adviser to Prime Minister Gordon Brown, covering foreign policy and culture, media and sport issues.